Investment Strategy

- Employs a relative strength approach to capture growth opportunities in up markets while offering protection in down markets. The portfolio maintains a fixed-income target of 30%.
- Exposure to a wide range of asset classes that include Canadian, U.S. and international equities, individual equity sectors, fixed income, cash, commodities and currencies.
- Sophisticated daily analysis is used to drive the decision to rotate into or out of asset classes and their individual holdings, when warranted, in an effort to achieve stronger returns and capital protection.

Portfolio Changes During May

- Bought: SPDR S&P Semiconductor ETF (XSD)
- Sold: Global X US Infrastructure Development (PAVE)

Changes to Asset Allocation and Sector Weights

- The highest weighted asset class is US Equities at 42.8%
- Information technology is the highest weighted equity sector at 29.2%

Contributors from Performance for the Month

- The iShares S&P/TSX Capped Information Technology Index ETF (XIT.TO) was the best performer of May, gaining 9.02%
- The BMO SIA Focused North American Equity Fund F (BMO12258) also had a positive month, gaining 1.42%

Detractors from Performance for the Month

- The iShares US Aerospace & Defense ETF (ITA) was the weakest performer in May with a -4.47% return
- The BMO MSCI EAFE ETF (ZEA.TO) was the second weakest performer for the month, with a -3.73% return

Canada’s main stock market index fell in May, reaching its lowest level in two months. Cyclical dragged on the TSX as oil prices weakened and investors feared that the Bank of Canada could raise interest rates further to tackle inflation. On the other side of the border, U.S. stocks rose in May, led by a rally in information technology and progress towards a debt ceiling resolution. The tech rally was fueled by slowing central bank hikes and excitement surrounding artificial intelligence.

*Calculated using change in month end values for the trailing 3 and 5 year periods (annualized for 12 months per year).

The BMO SIA Focused North American Equity Fund utilizes SIA Wealth Managements relative-strength methodology and will target fifteen individual North American securities while equities are in favor; however, the fund could hold as little as zero equity positions when equities are unfavored. SIA Wealth Management, who acts as sub advisor for the Diversiflex portfolios also acts as sub advisor for the BMO SIA Focused North American Equity Fund.

Performance is calculated using month-end market values of the model portfolio. Since we use a model portfolio to calculate performance, there are no client-initiated cash flows (deposits/withdrawals) to account for. Performance is calculated by dividing the change in the model portfolio's market value by the model portfolio's market value at the beginning of the performance period. Also, any and all income generated by the portfolio's holdings are held within the model portfolio in cash and is accounted for in the portfolio's month-end market value – this results in a total return measure of the model's performance. Returns for periods less than 1 year are shown as periodic returns while returns for periods greater than 1 year are annualized.
